Concerned Citizens Against Excessive Road Construction

I am representing the Montana citizens who are opposed to the excessive amounts of road construction in the state of Montana. Our tax dollars are going out to repair the same highways every year.

Our government allows more highway construction than is necessary. These highways are repaired or modified at least once or twice a year. For example, the highway between Livingston and Bozeman was under construction every summer for three years. Also, in addition to excessive construction, there is the fact that it takes way too long, spending more money than is necessary. Many of our highways have been under construction for several years without substantial progress. This is a nuisance to the drivers in Montana, as well as taxpayer money being used inefficiently.

On the other side, many citizens would like to see more, efficient road construction in our towns. Many of Montana's towns have overused roads that cannot support the amount of traffic that is on them. Also, many of town roads are falling into decay and nothing is done about it.

I believe that our state government should tighten up restrictions and time limits on highway road construction, and allow for more in town road construction.

I will support the legislation that will refuse to pass bills on wasteful spending of tax dollars to re-build the highways that don't have a critical need for construction.
